

Shari A. Gross, M.A., CCC-SLP, speech-language pathologist and Certified Elementary Educator, entered private speech pathology practice in 1998, and became a member of the American Speech-Language Hearing Association, New Jersey Speech-Language Hearing Association, and American Academy of Private Practice of Speech-Language Pathology. She served as both a speech-language specialist and elementary educator in both public and special education schools. She served as a clinical supervisor and adjunct professor for the Kean University Communication Disorders Department, and is currently a clinical supervisor for Seton Hall University College of Health and Medical Sciences. Shari Gross served as the speech-language pathologist for the selective mutism group. She has published nationally on selective mutism and has provided continuing professional education on both selective mutism and auditory processing disorders throughout New Jersey. She has presented at conferences of the American Speech-Language Hearing Association, The New Jersey Speech-Language Hearing Association, SpeechTherapyPD.com, and the Central Jersey Speech and Hearing Association, as well as numerous public school districts. Shari is a proud alumnus of Brandeis University (B.A. 1988) and Kean University (M.A. 1995)